

IN JANSSEN CASE

Cops Question
Former Convict

By TOM DUDDLESTON

An acquaintance of slain Louis Janssen was arrested last night and questioned at length by detectives.

But Police Chief Bernard L. Garmire said today investigators were convinced that the former New York man was telling the truth and has no connection with the Janssen case.

The man questioned said he has used several names but told members of the intelligence unit he is John Joseph Carroll, 53, of 422 N. Martin Ave.

Carroll said he has served 30 years in prison on several charges, including the killing of a police officer in New York.

He said he is wanted in New York State for parole violation.

Carroll was booked at city jail for that offense and for giving a false report to a police officer and having a fictitious driver's license.

Carroll's statements are being checked with New York authorities today.

Detectives turned up his name in the Janssen case investigation and he was picked up last night.

Garmire said that in addition to knowing Janssen, Carroll was a painter and had done work for Marco's Restaurants.

Police have been seeking Rudy G. Perfetto, 29, vice president and secretary of the restaurants, for questioning in the death of Janssen.

The 25-year-old former airman was shot down Dec. 13 at a secret rendezvous at 4955 E. 3rd St. He carried $3,000 to the meeting. The money has not been found. Subsequent investigation showed police Janssen once had been a burglar, according to Garmire.

Also wanted for questioning is Morris Brady, 36, an admitted gambler, and at least two other men who are reported to have left the city since Janssen's death.

Garmire said today it has been learned that the person to whom Janssen sent money in Europe is his mother. Her name, Christine Schom Janssen, was on bank drafts dispatched from here.

Regional Plan Official Quits Post

With the resignation of its executive secretary, Warren Wentink, Tucson Regional Plan today reported it was turning to a committee form of organization.

TRP's office at 602 N. 4th St. was closed today by Wentink who said a lack of finances and concrete program had led to his resignation.

Following the holidays, TRP will shift its program emphasis as suggested last fall by a nationally-known planning consultant, Carl Feiss.

Feiss had suggested that TRP help the City-County Planning Department in its efforts to obtain necessary staff for long-range programs.

Board member Sidney Little referred to TRP's new role as an "advisory council of interested groups."

He reported that TRP hoped to narrow the working board and eliminate the cost of a secretary. He said that an office represented a substantial overhead for an organization depending on private funds.

Little felt that specialized committees, in studying community problems, could be of great assistance to government planners working on long range goals.

Wentink, who was hired last June, handled routine business of TRP. Apparently he had hoped that concrete programs could be worked out in the period since. His contention was that specific goals had to be outlined in order to attract money.

He was expected to announce acceptance of a new job shortly.

The cost of the project has been estimated at $1,421,300.

All Amphitheater schools have individual water systems to provide for irrigation of extensive planting.

Board members also gave permission to school administrators to attend several out-of-state meetings.

Six elementary school principals will attend the National Assn. of Elementary Principals meeting. The National Assn. of Secondary Principals session will be attended by Peyton Reavis, high school principal.

Donaldson will attend the American Assn. of School Administrators meeting and Lawrence Cross, assistant superintendent, will attend the North Central Assn. meeting.

Trustees George Morse and Charles Whitehead were appointed as voting delegates to the state school board convention to be held in Phoenix next month.

Donaldson will attend the American Assn. of School Administrators meeting and Lawrence Cross, assistant superintendent, will attend the North Central Assn. meeting.

He is under indictments charging evasion of $791,000 in personal and corporate income taxes but trial was delayed when his lawyers pleaded last October that he was not competent to stand trial. Government-appointed psychiatrists confirmed the finding.

The fifth was Bvt. Gen. J. A. Stafford. In addition, two other generals — Maj. Gen. Philemon Beecher and Brig. Gen. Samuel F. MacCracken — lived within a block of the Ewing home but died before the war.

Arrested with him were Juan Mata, 36, and his wife, Patricia, 38, of 2304 S. 4th Ave. Mata was booked on a charge of being drunk in public while Mrs. Mata was accused of serving a drunk person.

The three were scheduled to appear on the charges in South Tucson Town Court today.

They were taken into custody by State Liquor Control Agents Bert Arce, Pete Donosi and Ralph Jenkins. Arce said they went to the tavern to investigate the report of a disturbance and found it was over when they arrived.

Tola also is awaiting South Tucson court action on charges of selling liquor to a minor and aggravated assault. The charges stem from a disturbance involving another patron at the tavern Sunday night. Tola had been free on $500 bail.
